GREAT BATTLE RAGING NORTH OF CITY OF LARISSA

Berlin Announces That German Forces Have Occupied Sarajevo

CLAIM TOTAL ADVANCE

State "Germans Determined To Annihilate The British"

(By International News Service)

BERLIN, Apr. 16—A tremendous battle is raging north of the eastern Hellenic city of Larissa, an official Berlin announcement said today.

Simultaneously the German high command announced that German forces had occupied the Yugoslav city of Sarajevo, birthplace of the great war of 1914.

Announcement of the major new battle followed claims that German panzer divisions had driven southward in Greece to new positions around Larissa, Trikala and Yanina, about 100 miles deep in Grecian territory.

Fast German motorized, armored units carried out a "blitz maneuver" that intercepted a large portion of the British forces in Greece and "compelled them to face about and fight a showdown battle," the latest German statement said.

Assessing this battle is now in full progress north of Larissa, the announcement added—"The Germans are determined to annihilate the British."

The German high command said that Stuka dive-bombers had inflicted "heavy losses" on the British and Greek forces as the Allies retreated south of Serbia.

The communique added that three British planes were shot down out of the skies in aerial dogfights, 17 enemy planes were set ablaze at Greek air-dromes and nine more "big" ships damaged severely by bombing attacks at Piraeus, port of Athens.

Variety of Entertainment Offered by Dance Choruses

The operetta, "A Waltz Dream," which is to be given at the Grand Theatre by the Bristol high school on April 24th and 25th, offers a variety of entertainment. Miss Sarah Granzow, Croydon, is teaching the dancing for the production. Those assisting Miss Granzow are: Mrs. Horace Royer, Miss Margaret Neill, Mrs. H. Kupiec, and Miss Marion Harrison.

There is a specialty chorus, consisting of 12 dancers, and a group of about 30 girls in the large chorus of dancers.

The specialty chorus does ballet and soft shoe dancing, while the large chorus does folk dancing. The songs for the specialty chorus are "Love's Roundelay," and "Piccolo." The large dancing chorus dances to "Spring Perfumes the Air" and "Courtly Dames and Country Lassies."

Announce More Changes In Motor Police in County

There has been another shake-up in the Pennsylvania Motor Police in Bucks County. The changes affecting both the stations at Oxford Valley and at Doylestown.

Private James Shovelin is now stationed at Oxford Valley instead of at Doylestown. Private C. A. Jones and J. P. Mitchell who have been stationed at Oxford Valley have been transferred to Doylestown.

Corporal Pepple, who has been in charge of the Doylestown sub-station a comparatively short time, has been transferred from Doylestown to the Troop headquarters at Bethlehem. He will be succeeded by Corporal Peter Greblunas, another veteran of the old State Police, who was once stationed at Doylestown as a Private under Sergeant W. Paul Snyder. Corporal Greblunas recently promoted, has been stationed at Troop Headquarters, Bethlehem.

Privates Fred Kohler and Kenneth Stumpf leave the Doylestown sub-station for Troop Headquarters, Bethlehem.

Another new officer coming to Doylestown is Private Thomas Joyce, of Troop Headquarters, Bethlehem.

Private Harry Christ, of Doylestown, who was stationed at the local sub-station for a long time, was recently transferred to Bethlehem Troop headquarters.

German Bombers Attack Ireland

Berlin, Apr. 16—Large forces of German bombers attacked Northern Ireland during the night, concentrating on Belfast, the capital, it was announced in Berlin today.

Fighting Proposal To Convoys Ships

Washington, Apr. 16—With the Senate Foreign Relations Committee slated to shelve the Tobey anti-convoys resolution today, leaders of the non-intervention bloc mapped plans to force a clear-cut decision on the Senate floor.

Sen. Nye, R., N. D., proposed that the committee, if it decides to reject the resolution, report it adversely so that the measure can be debated and put to a vote. Administration leaders, however, were against a bitter fight over use of American warships to convoy lease-lend war materials to Europe.

Situation in Yugoslavia Reported As Bad

London, Apr. 16—The military situation in Yugoslavia is "bad," informed London quarters frankly conceded today.

They declared reports from the Balkan front indicated that all unified control of the split and scattered Yugoslav armies now has ceased.

In the face of this set-back, British military quarters said, virtually complete collapse of Yugoslav resistance against attacking German and Italian forces is possible before night-fall.

At the moment, British officials said, large-scale guerrilla warfare is raging in Yugoslavia. They stated that entire Serbian brigades and even divisions were raiding German flanks and supply lines, but they admitted that no co-ordinated Yugoslav action is possible.

SAFE IN U. S. WITH MEMORIES OF BLACKOUTS

Rev. and Mrs. William Davis, Missionaries in Africa, Tell of African Campaign

ON A YEAR'S FURLOUGH

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 16—Safe in the United States, the Rev. and Mrs. William Davis and one-year-old son, Timothy, are glad that six weeks of black-outs aboard the American Export liner, "El Nil," from Mombasa, British East Africa, are behind them.

The Davis family is visiting the Rev. Mr. Davis's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Davis, here. The younger Mrs. Davis was formerly Miss Evelyn Thompson, and she and her husband are Baptist missionaries, who are now on a year's furlough from their station in Nairobi, Kenya, British East Africa.

Mrs. Davis went to Africa five years ago and her husband has been there four years. The Davis home, high in the mountains of the province of Kenya is not far from the Equator.

Six weeks ago they left Nairobi for the voyage back to the United States. The "El-Nil" departed from Alexandria several days before it reached Mombasa, where the Davis' boarded the ship.

The "El-Nil," an Egyptian vessel, is the ship that was reported sunk by a German submarine more than a month ago in press dispatches throughout the world, but the mistake was later corrected. Quite a number of the passengers aboard the "El-Nil," however, saw the remains of various vessels sunk by German and Italian submarines on the trip through the Red Sea from Alexandria to Mombasa.

The Davis family experienced no submarine scares although they were not far from the danger zone at any time until they reached the Atlantic Ocean. At sunset every night, all outside lights aboard ship were extinguished.

Aboard the "El-Nil," which docked at Jersey City, Friday, were 107 passengers, most of them Jewish refugees seeking a home and protection in the United States.

"Excitement concerning war is nothing new to us," Rev. Davis said. "We had our own air raid shelters back in Nairobi and on many occasions experienced air raids by both Italians and Germans."

"There are thousands of troops in British East Africa. The Britishers have every conceivable type of motor."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Facts Should Be Faced

Washington, April 15. WITH the war going badly, in the Atlantic, in the Balkans and in Africa, for the side to which we are committed, the question of our course becomes increasingly pressing—and our position increasingly uncomfortable.

Very clearly, we have got to do one thing or the other—quit or go forward; shut up or act.

CERTAINLY the time has arrived when either we have got to stop encouraging other nations to make the "fight for freedom" or contribute more than we have done or are doing to that fight. We gave, through the President personally and various State Department spokesmen, direct encouragement to Yugoslavia and to Greece. The revolution by which the former oust the leaders who had sold out to Hitler was officially applauded in this country and the new Government was assured that aid would be forthcoming from the United States, though in what form was unspecified.

BUT we did declare, in so many words, to Yugoslavia and to Greece, that "this Government, with its policy of helping those who are defending themselves against would-be conquerors, is now proceeding to send as speedily as possible military and other supplies to Yugoslavia." Unquestionably that promise stiffened the resolution of the Yugoslavs and put new courage into the Greeks.

Yet it is a promise which we are not fulfilling and which we cannot fulfill. The reason is that while part of our neutrality law has been repealed, the part still on the books unequivocally prohibits any American vessel from entering the war zone.

THIS fact is utterly inconsistent with our foreign policy. It also

Addition Being Erected At O. K. O. Plant, Hulmeville

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 16—Work was started yesterday on erection of an addition to the O. K. O. Plush Company mill at Reetz and Lincoln avenues. The addition will make the third section to the plant.

The building, to be of steel and brick, will measure 140x53 feet, being one story in height. It is being built on the north side of the present mill building.

The addition will provide space for 12 more looms for weaving of plush. The building will be completed in one month, according to the president, August Onraet.

COUNTY W. C. T. U. PRESTS CONDUCT A DISCUSSION

General Subject is "Goals of Child Training;" A Service By Mrs. Bemis

VOTE THIS AFTERNOON

A variety of topics were discussed by regional and state officers this morning at the fourth meetings in Bristol Methodist Church in connection with the Southeastern Regional Convention of the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U. Election of officers was deferred until the closing session, which is scheduled to open at 1:30 this afternoon.

The Rev. Paul R. Ronge, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, was called upon by the regional president, Mrs. Thomas W. Lesh, of Palmyra, to offer the morning prayer. The subjects which followed included: "Goals of Child Training," a panel discussion by the county presidents, namely: Mrs. Elsie Nixon, Bucks, "A Good Citizen," Mrs. Thomas Lesh, Lebanon, "The Nation's Greatest Wealth," Mrs. Rae Maurer, Lehigh, "The Value of Total Abstinence," Mrs. Jennie Butz, Northampton, "The Motion Picture Question," Mrs. Hannah Mae Davis, Schuylkill, "Our Community Tomorrow."

A service conducted by Mrs. Sylvia Ripley Bemis, regional director, was participated in by: Mrs. Caroline A. Moore, state director, "Soldier and Sailor Boys"; Mrs. Ida R. Ridginton, Williamsport, "Comets"; Mrs. Catherine Wisler, state treasurer, remittance of funds. The noontide prayer was conducted by Mrs. Roscoe L. Horner, Langhorne.

The accompanist this morning for singing was Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson; and for last evening's service, Mrs. Harry T. Neher.

The address at the afternoon session yesterday, was delivered by William Hubben, director of Christian Interests, at George School, Newtown. His subject was "Christian Education."

At the outset, Mr. Hubben informed the representatives from 11 counties, that "Education is more than teaching and the transmission of ideas." In considering Christian education for the children in the home, he told that "The best of us is transmitted to our children not by teaching, through pamphlets, etc., but by simply living with them." Telling that he did not wish to minimize the value of periods of instruction in religion and the Bible, Mr. Hubben enlarged upon his subject by pointing out the danger encountered when parents feel they have discharged their Christian obligations by simply sending the children to Sunday School.

"What shall we say of the parents who send their girls and boys to Sunday School on the Sabbath, the father then leaving for the golf course, and the mother also preparing to go off somewhere?" The importance of sharing Christian experiences and study with the child was stressed, the speaker asking: "Do we share with our youngsters our efforts to arrive at religious truths? Let us share our great and small doubts. Let us share our search for better and higher things with them. Let us share our prayers with them—our prayers of joy, our prayers for service and sacrifice."

The need of discipline of mind and spirit, through prayer, in order to drive out evil, was impressed by Mr. Hubben on his listeners. In speaking of self-discipline on the part of the adult, so as to co-operate in education of the young, the guest speaker had this to say: "If we wish to impress our selves and Christianity upon those we teach, we should be willing to submit ourselves to self-discipline." Speaking of saints, and the qualities of such, Mr. Hubben said: "There is something impersonal about saints. A Spirit truly runs their lives. Their very purity has an appeal to us, such as the best sermon might never have." Turning attention again to need of Godly training on the part of the parents for the children, he informed that

NEED OF SPIRITUAL REARMAMENT IN THE WORLD IS STRESSED

Rev. David Y. Brink, New Brunswick, N. J., Speaks at W. C. T. U. Convention

MRS. BLACK PRESIDES

"There Must Be A Moral Re-Armament If We Are To Stand," Speaker Informs

"There must be a moral re-armament if we are to stand." These words were uttered by the Rev. David Y. Brink, pastor of the First Reformed Church, New Brunswick, N. J., last evening, when he addressed the third session of two-day Southeastern Regional Convention of Pennsylvania Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in Bristol Methodist Church.

"We are in the midst of a nation that is drinking itself to death. Juvenile delinquency is rampant. You would be amazed should you go into any of our courts, and see the youthfulness of the men that come before the judge. Sexual immorality is to be found on all sides. A sickness of the soul is abroad in the land."

That many physical ills can be traced to spiritual disorders, was one point strongly impressed upon the women gathered here from 11 counties, with Bristol W. C. T. U. as hostess. "And it is hard to trace a soul sickness," added the Rev. Brink.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ella B. Black, president of the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U., who had the honor of presiding last evening, the other sessions being directed by Mrs. Thomas W. Lesh, Palmyra, Pa., regional president.

In commencing his address the Rev. Brink, who spoke with great force, considered briefly the general theme of the convention, "The Child in the Midst." Reminding of the sweat and blood and tears that are to be found in the world today, the young clergyman asked the question: "What can children expect in a world of sweat and blood and tears. What is in store for them?" Reminding of the tragic cases of the refugee children in Europe, separated from parents, wandering alone, half-starved; and also calling attention to the many in this land suffering for lack of necessities of life because of the low moral habits of the parents, with funds going for drink, the speaker asked "What are we to do with the children? I'm glad for a group like this—considering 'The Child in the Midst.' Urging that the people 'about-face,' to guard against changes here such as came in the old world, causing upheaval and unrest, he told that the real cause of the fall of France was spiritual and moral disintegration.

"Today in some parts of our own land, they are advocating at this Holy Easter season a 'Bunny-Claus.' This is typical of the spirit in the land—the setting up of the tables of the money changers in the temple. There is a spiritual sickness abroad. But I thank God for organizations such as this that deal with the basic underlying sicknesses of the soul."

Turning attention to a Bible passage, which he termed a "war communique of Bible times from Jerusalem," the Rev. Mr. Brink, gave briefly the story of the taking into battle of the images of the tribe, thinking they would be blessed. "Then we are told in the passage how they left the images, their Gods, behind them, and fled. Of course, their faith was false. But we also find that just as soon as we leave our faith behind we are defeated. I thank God for groups like this whose faith in times of crisis is constant. We need to fill the arsenals of God to help us in our battles. This is a world on the anvil—heated by the passions of men, with class arrayed against class. And the world on the anvil is growing white with heat. The world is melting down into a shapeless mass. The world will never be the same again. Well, thank God for that. But we who are sure of the world we would fashion out of this trial—how do we know but what God is working through groups such as this for the salvation of the day in which we live!"

The Rev. George E. Boswell, rector of St. James's Episcopal Church, conducted the devotional period. The three vital factors in the life of today mentioned by the local clergyman were: brains, background and backbone. "We as Americans are greatly blessed and privileged, and yet we are fast losing our most precious privileges because we are being blinded by the propaganda of the liquor interests." Lamenting the fact that the home in many instances has degenerated into a place where people merely eat and sleep, the Rev. Boswell stated in no uncertain terms that "Too many parents have wavered in their moral conceptions."

JOB FOR AN EXPERT

They're still making little ones out of big ones—diamonds, not the ordinary kind of rocks.

In the office of a Fifth Avenue agent dealer in New York City, a skilled diamond worker, descendant of two generations of diamond workers, is cutting the President Vargas found nearly three years ago in Brazil.

As Dealer Harry Winston paid $700,000 for the Presidente Vargas, there is much at stake in one blow of the hammer. Mr. Winston chased that precious block from South America to Holland, finally catching up with it in Amsterdam. What the two peasants who found it in Brazil got out of their discovery is not related, but if all goes well with the cutting business Mr. Winston will have some $2,000,000 worth of diamonds in his possession. Of the 23 finished stones, the largest will be 50 carats.

What is difficult for the layman to understand is that the expert diamond worker has given a year of study to the Presidente Vargas before venturing to make that first little incision. All the planes and cleavages must be figured out, flaws—if any—discovered, the number and dimensions of each finished stone calculated. No wonder the profession of diamond cutter runs through generations of families. This explains also why the few real top-notchers can command big prices for their work. Laterally, they have million-dollar values in their hands.

There is a certain feeling of assurance in the knowledge that people still purchase and wear jewels worth a king's ransom, in the revelation that this much of the old order has not been swept away. Perhaps more important features may be salvaged also.

POWDER KEGS

Word from London that five of the destroyers the United States made over to Britain are now manned by men of the Norwegian navy battling for Britain on the high seas shows how certain it is that trouble will be on tap for Hitler in the countries he has occupied the minute he can no longer command enough initiative to cover up a fading prestige.

The Norwegian seamen aboard the destroyers reflect the resistance latent in the Norwegian civilian at home. Similarly the Polish troops Britain rescued from France last summer, now in the English army, by their fidelity to the British cause evidence what eventually can take place in Poland.

Of the same pattern are the Frenchmen who are adherents of DeGaulle. Ultimately all France will be of their kidney. There can be little doubt that the populations of Denmark, Holland, Belgium also are resolutely hiding their time for an accounting with the conqueror.

When Hitler's prestige breaks all of it can collapse under him quickly and he will find himself not atop one powder keg but a dozen.

Germany wanted the Balkans as a source of food supply. But under present conditions the farmers must be having a terrible time getting in their crops.

There's still something rotten in Denmark. Not to mention Czechoslovakia, Poland, Belgium, France, etc.

They think they must smoke and drink and attend cocktail parties lest their children might think them old-fashioned." Giving consideration to some deplorable conditions found in training camps in the United States, which are dragging down the souls of the men, the Rev. Boswell informed that "This is a responsibility which we as American citizens can no longer evade."

Mrs. Alvin Sherbine, state director, was introduced by Mrs. Black, she bringing greetings to the gathering.

Another speaker of the evening was the Rev. O. P. Poulson, of Huntingdon, secretary of the Pennsylvania Men's League. The "false propaganda" put out by the liquor interests was deplored by the speaker. "They tell us that if liquor is taken away the taxes will be raised. This is a lie, and we are fools if we believe it. We have voted over 1,000 communities dry in the state of Pennsylvania, and taxes have not been raised in any of them. They tell us that many people will be put out of employment, if liquor is taken away. Well, I know you would save money on the families of the 'old soaks' you have to keep."

The Rev. Poulson reminded of how the "wets" claimed that "bootlegging" was due to prohibition. "But since the liquor has returned, we still have the bootlegger, and the 'wets' are battling him. They tried to tell us that repeal would end all of that. . . . There are nearly 25,000 liquor licenses in our state, and we have the nerve to sing 'God Bless America.' What we need in America is repentance on the part of the people before we ask God to bless us. Women of Pennsylvania, rise up in your might, and help drive this curse from our land."

County and state officials present were called to the pulpit, and introduced to the assembly by Mrs. Black. The regional group was invited to Norristown for its next convention, when Montgomery county unions will be hosts.

Music of the evening included an organ recital by Miss Winifred Tracy; vocal solos, Charles Quigley; vocal number, "Jesus, Rose of Sharon," Mrs. William Duffemel; and numbers by the choir of First Baptist Church.

nullifies the kind of promise we so generously made to Yugoslavia and Greece. The point is that we have no business making promises which we either do not intend to keep or could not keep if we tried. As the law now stands, no cargo, military or other, can be shipped to a belligerent country from this country in an American ship. As there are no other available ships, there is no way to send military or other supplies to Yugoslavia or Greece, and none is being sent. The promise is not being and cannot be carried out. It would have been better—for them and for us—if it had not been made.

OUR position toward the British is not exactly parallel, but neither is it altogether pretty. We have made no promises to the British not contained in the Lend-Lease Act and in the Presidential declaration that the United States would become the "arsenal of democracy." However, we have openly declared ourselves their ally, and Mr. Roosevelt's denunciations of Hitler and his Axis partners have fully equaled those of Mr. Churchill in vehemence. We have appropriated seven billion dollars to help Britain on the theory that our own national interests are inseparably linked with the British survival, and we have turned over to them destroyers, Coast Guard cutters, guns, bombing planes and other war material from our own stores.

ACTUALLY, we have gone so far that a great many regard us as already in the war; and certainly no one has any doubt that Hitler is our enemy and we are his. The whole business is based on that assumption. There isn't any other. We are arming ourselves because Hitler is a menace to our institutions and way of life, and we are helping England because if she goes down the Hitler menace will become much more imminent and we much more exposed to attack. These are mere statements of facts which few dispute and an overwhelming majority endorse.

THAT in the face of all this we should continue to operate in the way best calculated to promote Hitler's chance of winning the war seems incredible. Yet, in refusing to face the convoy question, that is precisely what we are doing. The facts justify that assertion. Here they are: (1) The British navy—and every American military and diplomatic authority agrees—that they cannot avoid defeat unless they can get more aid from us; (2) the Germans are sinking cargo ships at such a rate now that, unless the submarines can be either liced or outbuilt, there can be but one end to the war—to wit, German victory.

(3) THE British, strained by the Mediterranean and African situation, are unable to provide adequate convoys for their cargo ships now in operation, or to supply the needed additional cargo ships to carry the material which we soon will be piling up on our docks. These are the unquestioned facts. They invite us to adopt one of three courses. First, we can continue to produce the supplies and, adhering to our principle of keeping American vessels out of the war zone, take the position that if the stuff goes to the bottom of the sea it isn't our fault and we have done all we can. Or, second, we can say to the British that inasmuch as they are unable to insure delivery of the goods we are producing, there is no sense in continuing to produce, except for our own defense, and we will have to close the arsenal so far as they are concerned.

OK, then, we can wipe out the remnant of the Neutrality Act and, using American cargo ships, protected by American naval vessels, add our sea forces to those of the British, in a determined effort to smash the submarine campaign and get the goods over. Mr. Roosevelt has got to make this decision. No one knows what he will do. From inside the Administration he is being pressed in all three directions. There are some who think the blackness of the outlook will spur him toward greater aid for Britain. Others take the opposite view. These say that the German successes in the Balkans and the increased sinkings in the Atlantic are apt to dilute his zeal; that he is more likely to wait to find out which way the people want to go than to provide real national leadership. At any rate, whatever we do, we ought to face the facts.

ACTIVITIES

Bucks County Playhouse
Is To Open On June 7th

The Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, will launch its season on Saturday evening, June 7th, making it one of the first summer theatres to open this year. The Playhouse will again be under the direction of Kenyon Nicholson and Theron Bamberger. As the opening of the theatre is one week earlier than last year, the season will be at least one week longer, making 14 productions a certainty for this summer.

Plans for the coming summer are still in process of formation, but the directors hope to offer at least one or two new plays prior to their Broadway presentation, in addition to several recent hits not previously acted in summer theatres. Plans also include reviving distinguished plays from past years and a number of prominent stage and screen stars will be featured.

Although this will be only the third season of operation for the Bucks County Playhouse, it has already achieved prominence as one of the outstanding summer playhouses for equipment and quality of productions.

Present activities of last year's company prove that talent scouts pay close attention to productions of this theatre. Louis Calherp has been playing the title role in "Life With Father" all season in Philadelphia and Boston; Natalie Schafer has an important role in "Lady In The Dark," Moss Hart's musical drama which stars Gertrude Lawrence, and John Koenig, scenic designer last summer, is credited with the costumes for George Abbott's hit musical, "Pal Joey," and the settings for this year's highly successful version of "Charley's Aunt."

BENSALEM IX KEEPS ITS RECORD CLEAN; LICKS SOUTHAMPTON

Fast-Moving Team Wins Its Third Successive Game

FINAL SCORE IS 13 TO 5

Team Is In No Mood To Be Tampered With

By Jack Gill

Bensalem High School's fast moving baseball team kept its 1941 record intact by recording its third successive triumph at Cornwells Heights yesterday afternoon. This time it was Claude Lodges Southampton Greyhounds who were made the stooges in the late frames as the Reimersmen pounded out a convincing 13 to 5 victory.

The Blue and Grey, pointing for its league opener against Langhorne on the latter's field Friday, have given conclusive evidence that they are in no mood to be tampered with on the diamond. Their ability to come from behind has been instrumental in all three of the wins.

Ted Devoe was the man who waved a potent stick yesterday. His four hits and three runs hoists his average to well above the .300 mark. Breaking the boy down on a baseball form sheet, one finds that he's a pretty handy sort of a guy to have hanging around the old ball orchard. He is undoubtedly one of the best left handed pitchers, aside from Driver, of Newtown, in district ranks. Now he has turned into a Rufing combination of swatsmith as well as leading hurler.

The Owls hopped off to a 3-0 advantage in the first on a single by Hamor, a base on balls that Everett worked, Schweinfurth for and safe raps by Devoe and Strickler.

But Southampton fought back and evened the count in the second by tallying three markers. Roberts, doing mound duty for the winners, went haywire and walked R. White and B. White. Then followed one base blows by Singley, Gross and Schweinfurth. The losers shot a run ahead in their half of the third on a single by R. White and a smashing triple by B. White.

Bensalem sewed it up in their half of the third when Everett doubled and Devoe brought him home with a single to left. On the throw in he went to second. He advanced a base on an infield rap and tallied on Strickler's long fly to left. From then on it was just a steady staccato of base hits that rattled past the Greyhounds. Roberts and Devoe led the assault in the fourth with doubles, while Warren Schoerer caught one for a triple in the fifth.

LANGHORNE REDSKINS WIN OVER FALLSINGTON

LANGHORNE, Apr. 16—Six runs in the first inning gave the Langhorne Redskins a 9-7 victory over the Fallsington High School yesterday afternoon on the home field. The tilt was sort of a "warm-up" game prior to the opening games of the league's schedule.

Coch "Mike" DeRisi started his freshman hurler, "Pete" Hartley, on the hill and he was shelled in the first round. Frank Willis relieved him but he gave way to "Bill" Shgeda in the fifth. Willis made the best performance on the mound, until the fifth giving but one hit and blanking the home team.

For the winners, Mitchell pitched the seven innings and although socked for 12 hits had excellent control in the pinches and blanked the Falls hitters in the sixth and seventh. He appeared in trouble in the sixth but waded out, despite a hit, a stolen base, and a pass.

Artie Driscoll, with a double and a pair of singles, led the batters of the day, although Bradely and Sharlinger had two out of three each as did Johnny Mansmann for Falls.

RAF Bombers Rip Base at Kiel

London, Apr. 16—Trading blow for blow, RAF bombers ripped the German naval base at Kiel with bombs last night while Nazi raiders delivered savage aerial attacks on widely scattered English towns and then hurled their heaviest bomb concentrations at Northern Ireland.

The death toll in Belfast, capital of Northern Ireland, was expected to be heavy for it was this metropolis of Northern Ireland that bore the brunt of the greatest mass bombing yet delivered to the territory north of Eire.

ized and mechanized equipment and have been putting it to excellent use. You don't know one-half of what is really going on, from press dispatches, but we can assure you that the British East African campaign is being carried on very successfully.

"The Italians are fleeing on every side and the campaign in that section is practically over."

The Rev. Davis said that in many cases the Jews are taking the places of natives on the farm, while the natives go to war. And the natives, the missionary declared, are excellent fighters.

The Davises are going back to British East Africa at the end of a year's furlough. They like the missionary work very much and have been accomplishing great good among the Okanda and Aswahili people. There are eight missionaries stationed in the colony.

The extreme heat in the Nairobi section, not far from the Equator, is almost unbearable when blackout hours arrive every night, Rev. Davis said. Little Timothy Davis, one-year-old son, stood the trip very well, and was but one of a number of youngsters aboard ship. Timothy was born in British East Africa.

Minor district changes also would be accomplished if the measure passes.

Provisions of the bill would be put into effect at the 1942 General Election but Senators re-elected in 1940 would serve until their terms expired in 1944. The Constitution provides that the State's 67 counties must be represented by 50 Senators.

The committee reported out the Congressional apportionment bill which would eliminate one U. S. Representative in both Philadelphia and Allegheny counties and add one to Luzerne county. Pennsylvania lost one Congressman due to population changes under the 1940 census.

County W. C. T. U. Pres'ts Conduct A Discussion

"Our best Sunday School material and our best Sunday School teachers are only additional material for what we do at home. . . Those young people who shirk sharing of mental tasks; and those who speak of loving mankind, yet can't get along with their room-mates, have something missing from their lives."

That the Bible lessons must be translated into the language of the present times was well brought out when Mr. Hubben reminded how Jesus spoke to his contemporaries in the language of His time.

A brief discussion on the subject of religious education in the schools followed, with Mr. Hubben answering questions asked by the audience. Regarding queries concerning the setting up of religious classes in public schools, Mr. Hubben gave it as his opinion that such would threaten the foundations of liberty, he then pointing out the resultant complications and problems, and telling of the damage done through such in certain European countries.

The vocalists of the afternoon were Mrs. Elwood Dyer, who sang "My Home, Sweet Home;" and Mrs. Charles I. Bowen. The accompanist for the soloists and for group songs was Mrs. Marburg D. Weagley.

Other numbers of the afternoon were: Prayer, Miss Emily Packer, Newtown; greetings from the following groups: state, Mrs. Ella B. Slack state president; county, Mrs. Elsie L. Nixon, Newtown, county president; city, Dr. J. Fred Wagner; church, the Rev. W. E. Preston Haas, rector of Bristol Methodist Church.

Others taking part were: Miss Linnie J. Long, state corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Helen Wilkins, state recording secretary, the subject of the two being "The responsibility of the local union to the county and to the state;" Mrs. Nellie Wright, state secretary, "Goals—How and Why;" Mrs. Ida Ridington, Williamsport, editor of the "Pennsylvania Bulletin;" "Buried Gold;" Mrs. James B. Scott, regional treasurer, offering; Mrs. Ida Crawford McKain, state Loyal Temperance Legion secretary, "Children and Alcohol Education;" Mrs. Stanley B. Doernbach, state Temperance Light Bearers secretary, "Welcoming the Babies."

Mrs. Wright, in her address, "Goals—How and Why," told of the duty before members of the W. C. T. U. in helping to shape public opinion. She told of growth in subscriptions to the Union publication, and the messages it offers monthly. Mrs. Ridington, in speaking of "Buried Gold," commenced her address by telling of the gold buried by the United States government in Kentucky. "But remember there are other things in life more valuable and more worth guarding than gold. We are told that in India it is the duty of the women at sunset, to light the little lamps, which burn the oil from the castor bean. What a lesson for the W. C. T. U.—to light the lamps of knowledge in every home—the lamp of knowledge of what total abstinence really means, and what good can be wrought by it!"

A group of children, members of the Loyal Temperance Legion, attired in red, white and blue costumes, sang two temperance songs. They were directed by Mrs. Ada B. Sands. Accordion selections were given by Janice McEwen.

Mr. and Mrs. John DiLissio, Wood street, announced the engagement of their daughter, Rose, to Joseph DiSalvio, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiSalvio, Holmesburg, on Sunday evening at a family gathering held at the DiLissio home.
